

Ganesh Murtis for Visarjan.

All the Murtis are individually made at the studio. Each Murti is Unique and handmade, so they are similar but not identical. NO plaster molds and absolutely no use of chemicals, rubber glue or raisin. They are decorated elaborately and have all the characteristics of a Maharashtrian Ganpati. (Mukut, janva, saap, modak, luck and life line. Also, a small cute mouse for the large and meduim ones).

Clay:

All clays are 100% natural and sourced from India, via fair trade. They are laser purified and filtered to remove all impurities and partially composed materials. The clay is EU certified. Red clay is natural red; therefore, the color might differ from the picture as each lot of clay may have a slight difference.

Colors:

For the colored Ganesh Murtis, the colors are natural water soluble, also made at the studio using vegetable dyes, rice paste, lime and chalk. The vegetable dyes are also made at the studio, and few veggies used to make color are also homegrown. No synthetic additives are added to the colors. Only exception is the golden color which is store bought so cannot be guaranteed .As per the label, it is water soluble and non toxic. (Which if previously mentioned will be substituted with yellowish-brown self-made color)

General Policy -

- 1) Since every piece is made by me individually, only limited Murtis can be made. So, each year I only take limited orders and are on first come bases. So please place your order accordingly.
- 2) All the Murtis are Unique and individually hand made so they look similar but may vary in slightly in size, design, jewelry etc.

- 3) All colors are organic and self-made therefore the Ganpati's are colored closer to the date so that the freshness and richness of natural colors do not fade. Multiple layers of colors are given to give it a velvety kind of texture. Hence once you choose the color it cannot be changed.
- 4) All Murtis should be collected in the given time schedule.
- 5) You have to arrange your packaging if not booked in advance.

Water immersion and clay use -

All the Murtis dissolve in water. And the clay can be used to water the plants or given to kids to play.

Only for colored, I recommend for the clay to settle down in the bucket. Then throw away the top water which will have the Metallic golden color. The rest can be used.

Please do not immerse the Murti in the ocean or canals. The clay isn't indigenous from European terrain therefore will harm the aquatic beings. Needless to say, it isn't allowed either.

For further assistance please feel free to write to me.

Thank you very much.

With kind regards,

Namrata kini.
